

Live Long; Die Healthy

Your Guide to Living Well in the 21st Century

by John Shier, RN, PhD

Acknowledgements

Foreword

Preface

About ThatGuyNurse

Part I: How You Can Live Long and Die Healthy

Chapter 1: American Medical System: Something Has Gone Terribly Wrong

Chapter 2: It Has Become Very Hard to Die

Chapter 3: You May Live 90 to 95 Years

Chapter 4: As We Age: Sagging and Bagging

Chapter 5: Five Rules for Long-Term Health

Exercise

Fuel the Machine

If You Smoke, You Die

Drink Alcohol (in Moderation)

Do Preventive Maintenance

Part II: The Professional Patient: How to Make the System Work for You

Chapter 6: You Are the President and CEO of Your Own Life

Chapter 7: The American Medical System: Not about Health and Wellness

Chapter 8: Hospitals Are Hazardous for Your health

Chapter 9: Choosing a Physician: Your Partner in Health

Chapter 10: The Second Opinion: Don't Proceed without It

Chapter 11: The Professional Patient Checklist

Part III: Issues and Decisions at the End of Life

Chapter 12: Death Ain't Like it Used to Be

Chapter 13: Asking Yourself the Tough Questions

Chapter 14: Key Components for Your End-of-Life Decisions

Durable Power of Attorney for Medical Care (DPOA)

“Living Will”

Part IV: A Doctor's Point of View

Part V: A Vision for the Future of Medical Practice in the U.S.

Epilogue

Appendix: Resources You Can Use